

Mint Pitassy

HNR 394

Instructors Michael Rohd and Michael Cassens

30 October 2023

Another week has passed by, and more exciting developments have been made in terms of how the project is going. Grete showed some fantastic concepts for different backgrounds to use, and in turn, that inspired me to update some of the backgrounds I had made to fit that style a little better. I also toyed with ideas for clouds that could roll across the screen. While they are still in the images, they are simply there to show what they could look like.

On Monday, October 30, during class, many ideas were exchanged, and we have an excellent strong foot forward here. Kate showed off some of her great music and sound that can be implemented in the app. I also enjoyed spending time with Grete and Dr. Rohd discussing verbiage, as that was something we had some conflict with. The discussion in class proved exceptionally fruitful, and I'm glad their ideas were exchanged. It was also good to update Michael on my questions for the email, and I'm excited to see what Loren from All Nations thinks of the project so far. I also look forward to seeing what I can do with this project in Godot and learning about how Godot works overall.